Whiskeys

The shelves behind the bar that our whiskey sits on were personally designed and manufactured by Andrew Carnegie. They were originally used to hold books in one of his libraries.

Between 1851 and 1858, a 400ml bottle of Glenavon Special Liqueur Whiskey holds the Guinness World Record for 'World's Oldest Whiskey'. Owned by an Irish family for generations, the bottle was auctioned at Bonhams in London and fetched a stag-gering £14,850 or roughly $30,000 US dollars.
